

Lyrics by: Rose DeShaw

Gaggle: Kingston

Tune: Marching Through Georgia

Date written or updated:

Legal's Gone Astray

These two transported illegal border crossers who were dying in the sun and were arrested and charged. While it is a local issue about the Mexican border, the larger issue is human rights. This song can be adapted and updated for new circumstance. It's a great old civil war tune.

Shanti Sellz and Daniel Strauss

Face prison time it's true

For transporting the dying

What if it had been me or you?

If it's legal to just let men die

Then legal's gone astray

And that's why we're marching here today

CHORUS

No deaths, no more

Not due to silly laws

No deaths, no more

We vow no more because

A human is a human

Makes no difference who they be

We're all in the same family!